

Special Thank You

On behalf of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service the study creator and author of Small Woodlot Harvesting, Daniel B. Hedderick, would like to thank the many people that helped with this study over the past 3 years. Your assistance, participation and ideas have helped greatly with the future of forest products from small woodlots. The people below are just a few of the individuals who were the pieces of the puzzle which made this project possible. We thank you, and numerous unnamed others for your assistance and dedication!

Implementation Team

Matt & Gus Diehl (forest products operator), Brian Knox (consultant), Stuart Moss (WVU), Frank & John Stark (consultant), Fritz Kessler (FSU), Jim Finley and Cara Raboanarierlina (PSU) and the five landowners that participated in the harvests.

MD DNR Forest Service:

Don Van Hassent, Ken Jolly, Dan Rider, Anne Hairston-Strang, Bob Webster, Bernie Zlomek, Randy Kamp, Eric Warnick, Barbara Stevens, Pam Cressman

UDSA Forest Service:

Karen Sykes

Mill:

Ebys Mill

Others:

Dave Scamardella (PA DCNR Bureau of Forestry)

Equipment Demonstrations by Private Landowners:

Bob Clites (band mill and homemade skidding arch)
Don Malaney (winch and tractor)

The Big Special Thank You:

Many worked on the project but not everyone poured out blood, sweat and tears in all kinds of weather the way Matt Diehl did as the forest products operator. We offer our special thank you for a job well done; your dedication to this project has not gone unnoticed!

Logs of this nature were valued between $356 to $560 dollars a piece and more.
